DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

The changes made to 35 U.S.C. 102(e) by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) and the Intellectual Property and High Technology Technical Amendments Act of 2002 do not apply when the reference is a U.S. patent resulting directly or indirectly from an international application filed before November 29, 2000. Therefore, the prior art date of the reference is determined under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. 102(e)).

2. Claims 1, 2, 4-12, and 14-30 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Chiu et al (US 6,452,615 B1).

Claim 1:

Chiu discloses a notetaking system that uses digital video and ink as references and notes. The system uses video feeds, bookmarking, and indexing material. The invention includes indexing of notes and video feed via de use of thumbnails, timestamps, and background snaps (abstract; col. 1, lines 7-20; col. 2, lines 57-61). Chiu's system includes providing video content that includes video frames and reviewing the video (col. 2, lines 3-6, 64-67; col. 4, lines 36-46; col. 5, lines 57-61; col. 6, lines 35-42); sending a bookmark during review of the video (col. 2, lines 64-67; col. 3, lines 1-11, 31-40); identifying a characteristic feature on the selected frame and recording the information on a storage medium (abstract; col. 5, lines 21-24; col. 6, lines 50-67; col. 7, lines 1-13; col. 8, lines 1-22); identifying a segment of the video containing the selected frame, the segment having a segment starting point and a segment endpoint and storing at least a portion of the segment (col. 5, lines 57-61; col. 6, lines 35-42; col. 8, lines 26-32, 50-53).

Claims 2, 12, and 20:

See claim 1. Chiu teaches that characteristic features of the frame are obtained from a frame signature created using the visual, audio or text properties of the frame (col. 1, lines 21-34; col. 3, lines 1-40, col. 4, lines 36-51)

Claims 4 and 14:

Chiu teaches timestamp as a characteristic feature of the frame (col. 1, lines 12-15; col. 3, lines 31-34, 49-52; col. 4, lines 44-46).

Claims 5 and 15:

Chiu teaches that a starting point and endpoint of the segment is based on detecting meaningful changes of information in the audio and visual portion of the video before and after the selected frame (col. 3, lines 4-8, 34-36; col. 5, lines 13-20; col. 7, lines 14-30).

Art Unit: 2173

Claims 6 and 16:

See claim 1. Chiu teaches that NoteLook system includes automatic note-taking using slide change detection. The video containing the presentation material is analyzed to determine when slide changes occur (col. 5, lines 13-20; col. 7, lines 14-30); and color changes (col. 7, lines 14-30). The NoteLook client is an audio and audio note-taking application that has video window and video handling capabilities (col. 5, lines 42-44).

Claims 7 and 17:

Chiu teaches that the segment is stored on the same medium as the video (col. 6, lines 50-54, 63-66; col. 8, lines 1-32; col. 9, lines 17-28).

Claims 8, 9 and 18:

See claim 1. Chiu teaches that a predefined length of the video from the segment start point is stored (col. 5, lines 13-20; col. 6, lines 16-18, 23-27).

Claims 10 and 25:

See claim 1. Chiu teaches that the stored segment contains a frame of the segment (col. 4, lines 36-46; col. 5, lines 21-28).

Claim 11:

See claim 1. Chiu teaches that the video source can be captured from a VCR or any video stream attached to the computer (col. 3, lines 41-45; col. 4, lines 56-60; col. 5, lines 8-12, 34-35, 57-58; col. 7, lines 3-6).

Claim 19:

See claim 1. Chiu teaches that users may store a desired video by searching for identifying features (abstract; col. 1, lines 10-15; col. 3, lines 1-3, 46-54; col. 4, lines 36-46; col. 5, lines 13-20, 57-61; col. 8, lines 1-32, 40-53; col. 9, lines 25-36).

Claim 21:

Chiu teaches that segments of videos are compiled on a video index (col. 3, lines 31-32; col. 4, lines 44-46; col. 6, lines 23-27; col. 7, lines 14-30, 49-54; col. 8, lines 50-53).

Claim 22, 24, and 28:

Chiu teaches that the videos may be stored locally or separately by the server onto the network and can be randomly accessed. The video may be transmitted to the NoteLook clients by the NoteLook server over a wireless network (fig. 8; col. 6, lines 50-66). Chiu teaches a storage mechanism that stores the notefile, captured images and indexed annotations on a remote server for subsequent retrieval during playback (col. 9, lines 25-28).

Claim 23:

See claim 1. Chiu teaches that the user may store, browse and retrieve the segment of the video having the selected frame (col. 5, lines 57-61; col. 6, lines 35-42; col. 8, lines 26-32, 50-53).

Claim 26:

Chiu teaches that the bookmarks may be accessed by mobile communication devices via a wireless connection (col. 3, lines 40-57; col. 4, lines 47-60; col. 5, lines 1-12; col. 6, lines 55-60).

Claim 27:

Chiu teaches that the bookmarks may be stored at multiple levels, shared and accessed by different individuals (fig. 8; col. 3, lines 31-40; col. 4, 31-36; col. 6, lines 50-66; col. 9, lines 25-28).

Claim 29:

See claim 1. Chiu teaches an index that is linked and allows access only to the segment, which is stored in another location (col. 7, lines 49-54; col. 8, lines 39-53).

Claim 30:

See claims 2 and 22. See further: fig. 8; col. 6, lines 50-66; col. 9, lines 25-28.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 3 and 13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Chiu and Brewer et al (US 6,285,361 B1).

Claims 3 and 13:

Chiu does not teach that a characteristic feature of the frame is its frame number. However, Brewer discloses a method for clipping video segments from an audiovisual file having multiple video frames. Brewer's method includes selecting a mark-in location that defines the beginning of the clipped segment, and a mark-out location defining the end of the clipped segment (abstract; col. 1, lines 43-50; col. 3, lines 30-67; col. 4, lines 1-27). Brewer teaches the frame number as a characteristic feature (col. 5, lines 18-67; col. 15, lines 22-38). Therefore, it would have been obvious to modify Chiu's notetaking system to include Brewer teaching of using the frame number as a characteristic feature because it is an easy, quick and effective way to identify a frame.

Conclusion

5. The prior art made of record on form PTO-892 and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Applicant is required under 37 C.F.R. § 1.111(c) to consider these references fully when responding to this action. The documents cited therein teach a method for bookmarking a segment of a video that is of the user's interest; the user is enabled to select the video from an index and then retrieve it.
